DRAFT DESERTERS

Considering the fact that the willing support of the American people to selective service was the cornerstone of the creation of our great army and our successful military achievements, the War Department does not deem it proper to pursue the policy of unjustifiable leniency toward those who deliberately evaded military service.

The creation of the huge army which was sent to the battlefields abroad was the result of the selective service act of May 18, 1917.

Although critics of American institutions predicted that in the event of a great war, the people of the United States would fail to rise to the full heights of patriotism and self-sacrifice in defense of their country, because of selfish motives and foreign influences, the war has proven that the old American spirit of sacrifice and service is not only alive, but more widespread than ever before.

After the discontinuance on November 11th, 1918, of mobilization and induction under the selective service law, the War Department began at once to consider the question of the proper disposition to be made of all those registrants classified by the draft authorities a draft deserters, with a view to definitely settling their status and punishing the guilty.

In the reduction of this number, the following class of persons, numbering about 163,000 men had their cases disposed of during the war:

(a) Registrants who enlisted in the army, navy or marine corps, but failed to inform their local boards of the fact.

(b) Men who failed to report for military duty, because of ignorance of the selective service act, but who, after learning of the seriousness of the offense, reported to military camps for service, and were restored to duty, after satisfactorily showing that their offense was nor wilful.

(c) A small number of persons, who during the progress of the war were convicted of desertion, or discharged as physically unfit for service.

(d) Registrants who died after their induction orders were mailed.

Of the remaining 325,000 names, the records of 151,000 showed that they could not properly be charged with desertion, and the records of 173,000 registrants revealed that they had been ordered to report for duty and wilfully failed.

Out of over 24,000,000 registrants, the maximum number chargeable with wilful desertion is 173,911; considsrably less than one per cent of the total registration, and a tremendous improvement over the draft record of the civil war. The War Department, in the near future, will publish to the country a list of men classified as wilful deserters, and deires to obtain the co-operation of the various state and local officials, patriotic societies and other agencies, including the Department of Justice.

The War Department has temporarily suspended the payment of the reward of $50 for the apprehension and delivery to military authorities of draft deserters because of the tremendous expense that would be incurred. The patriotism and universal desire to the people to see no draft deserter go unpunished. it is blieved will be sufficient incentive without the offering of a reward for the apprehension and surrender to military authorities of these draft offenders.

IRELAND AFLAME WITH CIVIL STRIKE

Limerick is Burning and Ter ror Reigns in Dublin and Cork

FIVE DEAD SIX HURT

Battle at Kantark—Military Lull Pouring Valleys Through Empty Tralee Streets.

London, Aug. 16.—South and West Ireland were aflame last night as the result of a fresh outbreak of guerilla warfare. The city of Limerick is burning, fires having broken out in many places, after serious rioting.

Tralee is in a state of terror and Dublin and Cork are little better off, while at Kantark a battle between the military and Sinn Feiners resulted in five dead and six wounded.

At Limerick an attempt by the police to enforce sterner measures of coercion started the trouble. A crowd had gathered on the station platform, returning from holiday trips, when a detail of the Royal Irish Constabulary attempted a general search for arms. Many resisted and the gathering broke up into armed camps.

Civilians fired upon the police, killing one and wounding one. The fire was returned with effect. The number of the civilian casualties was not ascertained. The crowds were dispersed throughout the town and the firing became general, followed by the breaking out of fires in many parts of the city some set by civilians, others by police and the military as reprisals.

At Tarlee, which is in County Kerry the military still were firing protective volleys through empty streets last night after a day of clashes with Sinn Feiners. At midnight Sunday military stores in cars on a railroad siding had been set afire by Sinn Feiners and completely consumed. Four policemen were fired at, two being severely wounded. Fire which destroyed the printing and newspaper offices of the Quinnel Sons did damage estimated at $200,000.

At Kantark, County Cork, a military airplane made a forced landing. A sentry, who had been posted as guard was shot dead and his assistants wrecked the machine. The arrival of a military patrol resulted in a pitched battle, in which one soldier was killed and one wounded. The Sinn Fein losses are believed to have been four killed and five wounded. The assailants were driven off.

Cork was plastered with posters today signed by "Competent military authority of the Irish republican army." It called upon all citizens from this date to boycott the Royal Irish Constabulary and to forbid emigration from Ireland without the permission of the Dail Eireann (Irish Parliament.)

The official communique issued regarding the clashes between the military and civilians in Dublin, Saturday night says that evidently systematic attacks had been planned on the military in every part of the city, as soldiers, singly and in twos and threes, were dragged from campfires or attacked on sidewalks and beaten and kicked. One, who was thrown into the River Liffey, was rescued. Other advices from Dublin place the blame for the affair entirely on the shoulders of the military.

One dispatch says:

"The military parties ran amuck in Dublin. About 9 o'clock a number of soldiers broke out of Dublin castle yard through a cordon of police and opened revolver fire on the crowd which was awaiting admission to a nearby theatre. Subsequently, armored cars and lorries filled with cheering soldiers armed with rifles scoured the streets. There was occasional rifle fire, continuing up to a late hour.

"Whoever is to blame for the outbreak, it is considered the most serious of its kind. This is the first time there has been such a disturbance in Dublin, although similar fighting

Vernon A. Slaughter, of this city, live stock claim agent of the Southern Railway System, has been appointed a member of the advisory committee of the nation wide conference to reduce avoidable losses on live stock.

It is estimated that bruises alone last year caused monetary losses on live stock and meat approaching $15,000,000.

ROBBERS HOLD UP 10 CLUB MEMBERS

New York, Aug. 16.—Four masked and armed taxi bandits held up ten members of the United Republican Club, of Brooklyn, robbed them of $2,500 in cash and $2,000 worth of jewelry and made their escape in a waiting taxi at an early hour this morning.

Hundreds of persons were on the block at the time of the hold-up but so quietly and quickly did the bandits work that no one was aware the club members were being robbed.

The ten members of the club were seated about card tables when five men drew up in a taxi. Four of the men alighted and sprang up the steps to the clubhouse porch, leaving the fifth man sitting in the taxi. Adjusting their masks, the men made a rush for the clubrooms and lined all of the members up with their faces to the wall. While two of the bandits covered the members with their pistols the other bandits searched the pockets of the victims, putting the money and jewelry into a small bag.

To Use Police Court

Justice Duffey to Hereafter Hear Cases in Court Room on Second Floor

Hereafter all cases brought before the police court will be tried in the police court room on the second floor of police headquarters.

Police Justice Louis N. Duffey stated today that he has arranged for this and court will be held promptly every morning at nine o'clock.

For some time past the cases presented to the police court have been heard at the desk on the first floor at headquarters because of the fact that the upper room was given over by city council to the health department for its clinic.

As a result frequently the little room on the first floor was greatly overcrowded especially when there was a case of any interest presented.

CONQUEST OF WORLD BY ARMS REDS' AIM

Drive Over Germany In Three Weeks as Poland Succumbs

TO ATTACK AMERICA

Soviet Propaganda Vigorously Paving Way to Hold Soldiers' Allegiance in New Conquests.

Kolno, Poland, Aug. 16.—Soviet Russia intends to seek an alliance with Germany to make war on France and, if this is successful, to undertake a conquest of England and eventually America. This officials of the Bolshevik regime told the Associated Press today.

As soon as the Polish war, which is considered a purely Russian business, has been finished, a note will be sent to Berlin, they declared, demanding permission to transport troops across Germany for the French campaign. Upon refusal of this request, which is taken for granted, a revolution will be instituted in Germany, the success of which the Bolsheviki asserted they were prepared to assure by force of arms.

With these ends in view, the Russian soldiers who have been told that all wars shall cease with ultimate victory over the Poles, are being subjected to a vigorous propaganda which declares that Frenchmen will be shot on sight but that the Germans are friends who will soon become comrades of the Bolsheviki.

These admissions have been corroborated by information gathered by the correspondent in conversations with German representatives of East Prussian newspapers who had interviews with the Bolshevik army chiefs at the front.

The Bolshevik leaders declare that within three weeks they will be in complete control of Poland, including the Polish corridor, which they intend to occupy, leaving a ten kilometer (6 1-4 miles, neutral zone about Danzig.

When the correspondent reached here after surreptitiously crossing the border at Czerwone and employing the aid of Poles and a farm wagon filled with straw, he called on the Polish Soviet commissary who recently was established in office by the Bolshevik military. Hans Scharnewsky, the commissary, is a Polish Jew, with protruding eye and a blonde mustache and wears a white collar. He acknowledged the correspondent's greeting and then sat down at his dinner table, completely ignoring the American.

At the commissary's side throughout the meal and during the correspondent's visit a Russian soldier armed with a revolver stood watch and all the conversation was interpreted to him in Russian.

The commissary's assistant, who was a former German officer, said this Russian was a Soviet representative who watched all business transacted by Scharnewsky and reported to the Soviet central government, although he never interferred with the commissary's procedure.

When the commissary finished his meal, which consisted of soup, a steak smothered with onions, potatoes and beer, he stalked to his office, directing the correspondent to wait. After an hour he returned, demanded the correspondent's passports, which he gave a cursory inspection, and then returned to his office.

After waiting two hours the correspondent wandered about the town, talking to the inhabitants, among whom were many Jews. He was told they did not know whether they were going under Russian, Polish or German rule, but said they had heard rumore there would be a plebiscite in this territory in the near future, in which the people would be permitted to vote whether they desired to adhere to Russian or Germany. The inhabitants declared such a vote would be overwhelmingly in favor of Germany.

Everywhere the people asked for news of the war and other information of the outside world saying they did not receive late newspapers and that all intelligence came from the German border through conversations with the German guards, who sometimes gave them German newspapers.

There is no commerce with the rest of Russia by telephone, telegraph or railroad and the inhabitants of villages along the frontier have been existing solely on the products of the farms. They declare that unless commerce is soon revived with Germany they will experience great suffering.

When the correspondent was unable after several hours to see Scharnewsky again he prepared to depart, but an orderly from the Commissary's office directed him to remain another hour, by which time a high official was expected to arrive. The correspondent ignored the order.

WRIT OF ERROR IN TURNER'S CASE

Negro Convicted of Murdering T. M. Moore Will Not Hang Sept. 10.

CASE UP IN NOVEMBER

Will Go Before U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals—Writ Allowed by Judge Waddill.

William Turner, colored, alleged slayer of T. Morgan Moore, torpedo expert of Alexandria, Va. will not hang on September 10, the date set by the United States District Court for his execution. Final bills of exception which have been arranged by his attorneys quietly and without any publicity were filed and signed in the office of the United States Marshall yesterday afternoon and writ of error allowed by Judge Edmund Waddill.

The case will go before the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, which is not scheduled to meet in Richmond before November. Writ of error was asked on the ground that evidence which developed after the death of Mr. Moore was allowed by Judge Waddil and should have been stricken out and the jury not allowed to consider the incidents mentioned.

Besides being arranged for murder, Turner is charged with robbery, and an attack upon Miss Pearl Clarke, of Washington. The assault charges have not been tried, only the charges of murder and robbery being allowed. Judge Waddill ruled, when the trial was in progress here, that the negro approached Miss Clarke after she had left the automobile and her fiancee was dead, demanding more money and jewelry from her. This, he ruled, made the offense of robbery and murder still in progress. It is upon this ruling which the attorneys for Turner are trying to get a new trial, contending that the court had no right to allow such evidence.

Turner still is confined in Henrico County jail.

JEWISH STUDENTS IN EUROPE STARVING

Carlsbad, Aug. 16.—Half a million children in Russia and Ukrainia are absolutely without any schooling, Dr. N. Ehrenpries, chief rabbi of Stockholm, today told the delegates attending the Jewish World Relief Conference.

Dr. Ehrenpries made this statement in an address primarily devoted to criticism of the work of the joint distribution committee for American-Jewish relief. He declared that conditions similar to those in Russia and the Urkaine existed in Saloniki and other parts.

The speaker asserted that in Switzerland Jewish academical teachers were pawning their diplomas in order to stave off starvation. In Prague, he said, 2,000 Jewish University students are nearly starving and their homes are in the parks and railroad stations.

He declared that in Vienna 92 per cent of 7,000 students were from eastern Europe, and that 18 per cent of them were suffering from tuberculosis, and 43 per cent from malnutrition. These students, he said, were making their sleeping quarters on canal bridges, in cafes and in side streets.

SERIOUS EARTH CRACKS

Bellings, Mont., Aug. 16.—Great crevices are appearing in the earth about Acton, 20 miles west of here. They are so serious, it is said, as to menace railway beds and it is possible may cause a new line to be laid.

It has been said for years that there was some connection between the structure of Montana and the California seismic belt, but there has been, as far as known no scientific statement on the subject.

HOW PUBLIC OPERATED TELEPHONES FAIL

Those who believe that the State or the National Government should control all public utilities will be interested to know what has been the result of telephone ownership in England. The London Times sent an expert to this country to make investigations, and his reports have filled many columns of that newspaper. In addition an editorial summary is furnished which is highly interesting. It should be premised that the investigation which covered the whole country took place at a time when our service was at a low ebb. If comparisons could be made with five years ago some results would have been more striking by contrast.

The Times wants the British telephone business removed from government operation and placed under private operation. Its argument is that whereas the United States has the best telephone service in the world, that of Great Britain is the worst among large nations. The argument is not based on theory, but on a plain presentation of fact.

Thus we have our twelve million telephones in this country, as compared with much less than a million in Great Britain, which has about two-fifths of the population of this country, while we are increasing phones at the rate of a million annually, or more than Great Britain has altogether. We have an average of thirty million conversations a day over the telephone, or more than the letters carried by post. In fact it is admitted that every year's development in this country in phones, capitalization and service exceeds the total of Great Britain in the forty years of this kind of business.

We submit that the result is a justification of our present system of private ownership and control from any standpoint which can be shown by official figures. What is even much more important is that whereas telephone service in Great Britain is very slow and often impossible, with us it is surprisingly accurate, prompt and efficient. Those who are now thinking that the railway should have been taken over by the government should ponder on the situation thus outlined.

LECTURE SEASON APPROACHES

The approach of the lecture season is brought home to us by the news from London that Sir Arthur Conan Doyle has just granted an interview in which he admits that he has been seeing things again. Indeed, he has not only seen, but heard them, and talked to them. "I spoke face to face, heard well known voices and discussed private subjects," he says. His chats were with his son, two nephews, his brother, General Doyle, his mother-in-law and several friends. Of course, the inevitable medium was there, and the manifestations were in the dark. They must be in the dark, says Sir Arthur, "for psychic phenomena are governed by law, just as development of a photographic plate must make the observer very careful. And I have been so, but there has never been any chance of deception."

Of course there never is any chance for deception in the dark, if one is a sincere believer. But why are we left in the dark as to further details? Why did Sir Arthur discuss only private subjects? He might at least have told us what he said to his mother-in-law, or, preferably, what she said to him. All of us who are still in this vale of tears would like to know how she likes her new home and what sort of climate prevails there. "I have also," he says, "received photographs of several dead friends, taking the photos on my own plates, with my own hand."

Here is another matter upon which those of us who dabble in amateur photography could wish to have further information. These photos were taken in the dark, of course, and presumably without a flashlight. It is all very tantalizing, but we shall have to be patient, for Sir Arthur is going with his wife to Australia for six months. "We will not go by way of America," says he, "for I do not feel equal to the task of tackling America yet."

This is a rather cryptic utterance, for Sir Oliver Lodge, a much older man, was not only equal to the task, but made a considerable success of it last season. But the American public is not without hope. "Perhaps," Sir Arthur promises, "after our return I will go to America to deliver six lectures."

In the meantime we hear nothing of Sir Oliver Lodge's plans. Perhaps he is to visit us again while Sir Arthur is in the Antipodes. Spiritualism's little system of propaganda seems to be well organized.

CRIME WAVE IN FRANCE

Paris, Aug. 16.—French judicial authorities publish figures and papers which show that the present crime wave sweeping over this country was caused mainly by the liberty children enjoyed during the war, when their fathers were in the army and their mothers were in factories or the movies. Out of 100 crimes committed, 90 have youths from 16 to 20 years old for culprits.

Laws to punish such crimes as murders and burglary cannot be applied to persons under 21 years, and rarely do criminals below that age get prison terms. Usually they are sent to reform schools.

The influence of moving pictures on youngsters is exemplified by recent burglaries in a Paris suburb. After having seen brigands on films, boys between 16 and 18 robbed houses in broad daylight.

AVIATRIX MAKES 87 LOOPS FROM 10,000 FOOT HEIGHT

Mineola, L. I., Aug. 16.—Eighty-seven loops or a hundred—it really doesn't matter much to Miss Laura Bromwell; of Cincinnati, for she had broken the air-looping record for aviatrices anyhow.

"So while she said she'd counted over a hundred complete loop turns while she was in the air, she just powdered her nose a bit and smiled after landing when the official scorekeepers of the American Flying Club accredited her with but 87.

"I guess 87 is enough and will hold 'em for a while," she said.

She went up 10,000 feet before starting her perilous loops downward and was in the air one hour and fifteen minutes. The previous record for women was 25 loops made by a French aviatrix.

MILLS LAY OFF 1200 HANDS

Altoona, Pa., Aug. 16.—Dullness in the silk industry caused an order shutting down the Schwarzenbach- Huber Company's silk mills in Altoona, Hollidaysburg and Juniata for a week beginning tomorrow, throiwng 1200 operatives out of work. This is the second layoff this summer, the first being for nine days.

Don't try to save money at the expense of merchants. A bank account is a good thing to have but don't let it consist of dollars that should be used in paying debts.

Happy and Contented

—is the man who uses his credit right. It is as great a pleasure to him to keep his accounts paid as it is for him to know that his word is good and that upon his promise to pay, merchants are willing to send their goods to his home.

Keep Your Credit Good 'It Will Be Easy

—if you make up your mind that you will pay promptly.

Those Who Must Ask for Credit

Should make good the faith shown in them by merchants.

If Your Credit is Bad—Make it Good

Start cleaning up your old bills, is the right way to do it.

If You Don't Pay Your Bills With One Merchant

All other merchants can know of it very easily

Your Credit Can be Good if You Wish

Buy only what you can pay for and meet your bills when due is the way to get credit.

Prompt Pay! Slow Pay! Or No Good!

Which ever class that you are in, you are there by reason of desiring to be.

Is Your Word Good When You Want Credit

Can you ask for goods to be charged and be accommodated?

If Not—Why Not?

Ask yourself the reason. You know it is because of failure to make good in the past. If you want this changed, start paying up the old and you'll soon find that merchants will consider yourself worthy of further credit.

Pay All Bills Promptly

Don't think you can keep your credit good by paying part of your bill and letting the rest go. You'll find that you will be measured more by the biils you do not pay rather than the ones that you do take care of on time.

Pay Bills Promptly

Don't permit accounts to run month after month. Merchants who extend you credit expect prompt settlement. You do them an injustice and make it harder for yourself by not meeting your bills on time each month when due.

Be Sure to Make Good

Don't shatter the faith which a merchant shows in you when he permits you to have his goods without first paying for same. Pay promptly and his faith will increase.

Why Merchants Extend Credit to You

It is in confidence that you will pay your account that causes a merchant to be willing to send his goods to your home upon your mere promise to pay. If you meet your obligations promptly, further credit will be extended as desired, and you will be accommodated in every way.

Why Merchants Withdraw Credit From You

If a merchant refuses to grant your request for credit, you can be sure it is because you have not dealt squarely with him in the past, or that he has heard from other sources that you do not pay your accounts promptly when due, and thus he does not dare to trust you.

Pay your bills when due. It will strengthen your credit. Help merchants pay their bills when due and is only what you promised to do when the chedit was extended to you.

MONEY

—is what is used to purchase with when goods are to be paid for before delivery to the customer.

Do You Have To Pay Cash?

The First of the Month

—will soon be here. You should start planning now to pay your bills.

You Have a Regular Pay

—day and so should be regular in paying your bills each month as they are due.

HONOR

—is what is used to purchase with when goods are not to be paid for before being delivered.

Can you buy upon honor?

Credit is the easiest thing in the world to get. Just keep your bills paid and you'll never lose it. But neglect them and soon it will be a thing of the past and is hard to regain when lost.

Don't Be a 'Dead Beat'

You know what it means when a person is put in the class of the "dead-beat." You might better do with less, be more economical and saving, thus paying your way as you go, rather than to have the reputation of beating all those who trust you out of all that you can get them to let you have without paying the cash.

Play Square

with yourself, with merchants and with the world in general. Pay for what you get and at the time promised.

BE HONORABLE

Your honor is at stake when you accept goods on credit. The only honorable way is to be prompt in paying for some.

Don't Add Expense

Merchants, as a whole, are doing business on a low margin of profit. When you refuse to pay your bills, you perhaps cause them to pay interest upon borrowed money. If you force them to collect what you owe, you make them pay a cost to collect which may be more than the prof its upon your purchase.

Keep Your Credit Good at All Times--If Unforseen Circumstances Compel You to Delay Payments on Accounts Due, Don't Hesitate to Tell Those Whom You Owe That You Need More Time, As By So Doing Your Reputation for Prompt Paying Will Not Be Injured.

In a game the Cl[illegible] team defeated [illegible] club nine by a 7 [illegible] score on the North Alfred street grounds, Sunday "Count" Von Hurbulus was on the firing line for the Clarendons and pitched a great game and he was given grand support by his team mates.

"Speedking" Jones was the Cardinals choice for mound service and performed well, but errors at critical times and the failure of his comrades to hit the ball safely when men were on the bases had much to do with the loss of the game. All the Cardinal players tried hard to capture the second contest for the Northern Virginia amateur baseball championship, but will have to be satisfied with an even break with the up-county lads. The third game of the series between the Cardinals and Clarendons will be played on neutral grounds, the time and place will be announced when the managers of the teams meet for that purpose.

Considerably better than their opponents at every stage of the battle, the Dreadnaughts went into grips with the Knickerbockers on the latter's stamping ground in the Capitol City yesterday afternoon and after a contest that kept all rooters practically on their feet at all times, the locals emerged victors to the tune of 15 to 9.

The revenge taken by the Dreadnaughts yesterday more than evened up the beating handed the locals by the Knicks on the local platter a few weeks ago. Stage fright, the bugaboo that lost the game in this city was conspicuous by its absence yesterday and the locals played top notch ball in all but two innings.

The locals were in the game to win, as was shown at the very outset of the slugfest. They forced over the first tally in the first stanza and in their half of this same inning, the Knicks tied the score. And then it happened.

The Dreadnaughts plastered everything that was dished up to them for the next few innings and ran the tally up to 11 to 1. Then Singleton, the big Marine hurler of the locals, hit a batsman in the head and began to weaken. The Knicks climbed up until the score stood at 11 to 9, but they were entirely out of luck from then on.

Deegan, the diminutive third baseman of the Dreadnaughts starred at the bat registering four hits out of six trips to the plate, one of them being a circuit clout, while another went for three bases.

Every member of the Dreadnaught team played bang up baseball during the entire nine innings and prospects are that when the third and deciding game of the series comes along, the Dreadnaughts will be favorites for the money.

A wild crowd of rooters greeted both teams when they ran onto the playing field, practically all of the trucks and automobiles of this city having been commandeered to haul the wild mob to the game.

Cornell, a new hurler who finished the game for the Dreadnaughts after Singleton had refired, steadied after the first round and held the crack Knickerbockers at his mercy.

The time and place of the playing of the third and last game of the series will be announced at a later date.

How Clean Easy Helps the Home

Stop washing clothes the old-fashioned, back-breaking way. There is a new method that costs little, is quicker, and far easier.

It is the Clean Easy way—and it's as simple as A. B. C. and as easy as washing your hands! Soak your week's washing over night. Shave ½ bar of Clean Easy Naptholeine Wash Soap into 4½ gallons of water. Bring to boil. Let the soap dissolve. Put in clothes and stir for ten minutes only. Rinse, blue and dry. The whole week's washing is done and you haven't hardly wet your hands!

Women everywhere say Clean Easy is the most wonderful soap they ever saw! It does not hurt the clothes, but leaves them white and spotless, sweet and wholesome. The boiling kills all germs, and because the clothes are not scrubbed to shreds, they last longer and look better.

You will be delighted with Clean Easy. Ask your grocer for it today and learn how easy and pleasant washing clothes can be made. Follow directions on inside of wrapper. Notice how different Clean Easy looks from other soaps.

"CRANK'S" DEATH BEFORE TRIAL DATE IS FEARED.

Norristown, Pa., Aug. 16.—Authorities here yesterday expressed fear that Augusto Pasquale held in connection with the kidnapping of Blakely Coughlin, might die before he can be brought to trial.

Pasquale, they said, had lost 30 pounds since his capture in Egg Harbor, N. J., August 2 and was suffering from an incurable disease. Police now believe Blakely dead and are bending all their efforts toward finding the body that they may have a clear case against the prisoner.

Antwerp, Aug. 16.—The establishment of a new world's javelin hurling record, in which Finnish throwers won the first four places, and the placing of every American entered in all the other preliminary contests featured the opening of the seventh Olympiad contests in the staudium here today.

has been frequent in the south and west.

"The day's events are most discouraging in view of the conciliatory Ulster attitude toward Dominion Home Rule and the confidently-expected pronouncement toward of a generous offer of self determination by Andrew Bonar Law, Government spokesman in the House of Commons.

"The Freeman's Journal this morning had stated that Bonar Law would make a 'surprising announcement' and the Unionist Irish Times said the appeal of Southern Unionists for dominion home rule no longer could be ignored by the Government. More and more, the paper added the Unionists were coming out in favor of dominion home rule, considering it the only solution left.

"Sinn Feiners yesterday morning stole the entire official mail which reached Dublin from London. The stolen mail included the private correspondence of Lord French."
